Council listens to proposal

Group hopes Stanton will adopt Fairness Ordinance

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

The Stanton City Council meeting ran about its normal time frame, nearly an hour. But for the first portion of that hour the council got to hear a presentation about being fair. Two men approached the council and asked them to think about a proposal to accept a Fairness Ordinance.

Michael Frazier, a resident of Powell County, and Chris Hartman, the director of the Fairness Campaign, an organization that strives for equality for all groups, were on hand to make a presentation.

Frazier asked the council to look into adopting an ordinance that would help to protect people as they are in "their station of life and where they are." Frazier explained that though the ordinance has come to be known to represent LGBT groups as well as those under gender expression and gender identity, it actually helps to protect everyone's rights..

Frazier and Hartman explained that the ordinance does not require religious organizations to accept or even hire LGBT individuals

Another appeal for Baze is denied

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

Two men awaiting execution in Kentucky have lost their appeal challenging the clemency powers given to the governor. One of them has been on Death Row for over 20 years after gunning down a Powell County Sheriff and a deputy, who was his brother-in-law.

Robert Foley and Ralph Baze claim the governor's absolute clemency authority violates their due-process rights. Kentucky's Supreme Court rejected their argument in a unanimous ruling last Thursday.

The two condemned inmates claimed in their appeal that most states require clemency hearings. In Kentucky, no recommendations or hearings are needed for the governor to decide whether someone should not be put to death. Foley and Baze say that could lead to arbitrary life-and-death decisions.

In writing for the court, Justice Lisabeth Hughes Abramson said the presumption is the governor would abide by state and federal constitutional requirements when deciding on requests by inmates for a commutation or pardon.

Foley and Baze are awaiting execution for multiple killings.

Baze ambushed Powell County Sheriff Steve Bennett and his deputy, Arthur Briscoe on Jan. 30, 1992 as Briscoe was attempting to serve felony warrants for assaulting a police officer in Ohio.

Vocational rehab opportunities exist with Key Assets Foundation

By JAMES COOK
Times Editor

When people hear the words vocational rehabilitation they may think of someone with a handicap or a special need that has to be met to find employment. But when Key Assets is involved, the words mean a second chance for some and fighting chance for others.

Key Assets and the area director, Marilyn Barnett, have been working for three years to help anyone who is eligible for vocational rehab to receive it. For some the issue may be special needs or a handicap. All too often those individuals may not get a chance to get the information they need to adjust until they are on a work site. But a new career readiness class and its pilot program is trying to make a difference.

According to Barnett this past school year the Key Assets Foundation and Maysville Community and Technical College in Mount Sterling joined together to teach the class. During the spring semester college and community leaders were engaged in helping prepare people for career readiness.

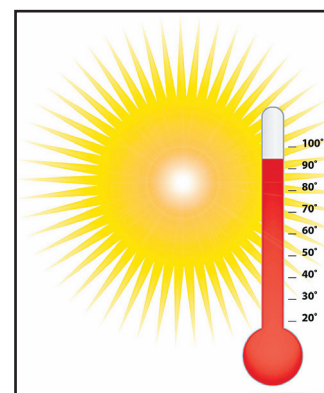

"Many of those in the class may not know the basic skills it takes to get a job or begin a career," Barnett said. "So we help them get the information they need and slowly

Traffic stop leads to meth lab

TIMES STAFF REPORT

While on patrol June 8, Powell County Deputies Robbie Richardson and Marty Tipton made a traffic stop on a white Eclipse on Winchester Road for a traffic violation. What happened after that helped to bring down another meth lab.

Deputies said that in the front passenger seat, Beverly Watkins, claimed to have owned the vehicle; she ended up having two warrants and was taken into custody. Due to the nervous nature of the occupants, according to Tipton, he asked for, and was granted, consent to search the vehicle. During the search, deputies began finding methamphetamine manufacturing equipment and precursors, as well as drug paraphernalia and suspected meth residues.

During followup questioning deputies discovered that the subjects in the car were traveling to JF Trailer Park Lot 1 in West Bend to meet with a subject, known by deputies to have five active warrants for his arrest.

At approximately 11:30 p.m. deputies left Watkins at the jail and drove to the trailer park. The occupants in the trailer claimed that the subject, Darby Crabtree, had been there earlier but had left. But deputies said that based on their actions they believed that Crabtree was in fact inside the residence.

Rather than leave immediately deputies conducted surveillance for a few minutes. At this point Deputy Chase Friel joined the other officers. Friel and Tipton approached the rear of the trailer where Crabtree was thought to be staying. From beneath an open bathroom window deputies stated that they could smell a strong chemical odor that is commonly associated with active meth manufacturing in a one-step process. Based on this information and the earlier traffic stop, Tipton left Richardson and Friel to watch the residence while he went to apply for a search warrant.

With search warrant in hand, the deputies were joined by Powell County Sheriff Danny Rogers and Stanton Police Sgt. James Watson. Together, the five officers surrounded the residence and, according to the report, had to force their way inside when the residents wouldn't open the door.

One spent lab, one active one-step lab, paraphernalia, finished meth, and manufacturing equipment, as well as numerous precursors were located in the bathroom and bedroom shared by Crabtree and his girlfriend Tasha Fuston.

The reports states that Fuston and Crabtree both admitted to taking part in the manufacturing process; both suspects were charged with manufacturing meth, possession of a control substance 1st degree and drug paraphernalia.

Crabtree admitted to facing current charges in Montgomery County for trafficking in control substances 1st and persistent felony offender 2nd degree after he recently sold Percocet to an informant during a controlled buy.

Other charges are pending for other suspects in the residence and from the earlier traffic stop, including a felon in possession of a firearm for one resident and possession of meth and possession of meth precursors for Watkins in the traffic stop.

The Kentucky State Police DESI team responded and dismantled the clandestine lab for the Powell County Sheriff's Office.

and it has nothing to do with same-sex marriages.

"It just helps to strengthen the state's protection clause and the civil rights laws already in place," Frazier said. "No matter what place you are in life, it just lets people know they are accepted and protected in the community and can be a part of the community."

Hartman pointed out, when asked by city attorney Scott Graham is state and federal protections were already in place, that sexual orientation and gender identity is not part of the civil rights act. He also explained that the mayor could be the one to investigate any complaints about an ordinance violation.

"It is not an extension of protections it just makes sure things are equal," Frazier added.

After the meeting Hartman explained that after Vicco, a small town in Perry County, passed the ordinance they received a lot of money for programs like a new city park. "People saw they wanted to make a difference and they got behind them and put some investment into the town," Hartman said.

Both men explained to the Times that the ordinance does not force anyone to serve or provide services to anyone. But a business could not deny services based solely on the reason of someone's sexual orientation or gender expression. In other words, one could not be denied services if it is based solely on them being gay or bisexual.

The biggest point the two made was that the passing of the ordinance could let the world know that "Stanton wants to compete in the global market and not just be a stereotype," Frazier said. "We all love each other and it brings us all together." He even quoted Franklin Graham in saying that we "should show love, not point fingers."

A larger than normal crowd was on hand with at least three church leaders on hand. Kevin Morton, spoke up by reading from the Bible a passage in Romans that stated God's plans of being for one man and one woman.

"Why would this council pass what is against God's plan for Stanton," Morton asked.

Graham suggested that since a rough draft of a model ordinance was passed out at the meeting and the council did not have time to review it that the idea be tabled until next month. The council agreed and thanked Frazier and Hartman for their presentation.

The state of Kentucky has eight cities that have passed the Fairness Ordinance so far. Midway, a small town in Woodford County, passed it last week. They have a population of near 1,600, Stanton is at 2,700 roughly.

In other items the city agreed to a resolution looking into bringing a pedestrian and bicycle path to Stanton and Clay City. The idea is to have areas for people to walk and hopefully increase health benefits. Powell is currently ranked 103 in health in the state.

The council also approved the second reading of the 2015-2016 budget and the first reading of the Planning and Zoning Comprehensive Plan Update.

The council also voted to set a straight $25 fee for the use of the city park's pavilions for clean up. Currently you have to pay a $50 fee for the larger pavilion and $25 for the two smaller ones.

KYTC Graduated Driver License course now offered online, take it anytime and anywhere

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) today announced an online version of the Graduated Driver License course for teaching safe driving techniques to beginning drivers.

The online program represents a fourth option for completing the course, which is required before a learner's permit can be replaced with an unrestricted driver's license.

Until now, three options were available:

- A four-hour Graduated Driver License course provided by KYTC in the driver's home county. The course is offered for free, and at least two courses are held per year in each of the state's 120 counties.
- High school driver's education course or a similar course offered by a Kentucky community college, vocational School or Job Corps.
- Private driver training course at a driver training school approved by the KYTC Division of Driver Licensing.

The new, fourth option is an online course administered by I Drive Safely, a driver education website.

"Our hope is to make options available for every situation," said Rodney Kuhl, KYTC commissioner of the Department of Vehicle Regulation. "We understand people have busy schedules, and this new online option just adds another convenient way for those struggling to find time for our classroom course."

The online course, which costs $15, takes about four hours to complete. The course can be taken when convenient for the driver and at the driver's own pace, as long as the course is completed within 270 days of the initiated login. The money charged for the course is collected by the website administering the course, not the state.

Nearly 35,000 students take the Graduated Driver License course each year. Students taking the online course may have to wait 24 to 48 hours before completion of the course shows up on their driving records. But after the course is complete, a confirmation email will be sent to the student. The course is available online at <http://teen.idrive-safely.com/Kentucky/>.

Once drivers have completed the course, along with other requirements under Kentucky's Graduated Driver License Law, they are eligible for an unrestricted driver's license. Guidelines for the state's Graduated Driver License Law can be found online at transportation.ky.gov/

Driver-Licensing/Pages/Graduated-Driver-Licensing-Program.aspx.

Commissioner Kuhl said the public's interest in online driver training became apparent after launch of an online version of State Traffic School for drivers cited for traffic violations.

"The online Graduated Driver License Course is a logical extension of our services and another way to increase convenience for those looking for classes," Commissioner Kuhl said.

Powell County Fiscal Court's June meeting was held on June 9, with all members of the court present for roll call.

At this point the meeting was opened up for public comment. County Clerk, Rhonda Barnett, came before the court to inquire about the possibility of getting a dehumidifier for the building housing the voting machines, insurance on those machines, and getting rid of older obsolete machines.

She had some concerns that the humidity was staying too high despite it being climate controlled. In order to insure these machines were protected she wanted to check on the possibility of adding this equipment as well as making sure we had proper insurance on the machines.

Mrs. Barnett is supposed to get back with the court with the square footage of her building and value of machines to enable the court to take appropriate steps.

Next, the court handled the financial portion of the meeting. This was dispersed with in a very timely manner as there was nothing of note.

After this, the court moved onto old business, where we had one item. This item was the health insurance and Mrs. Josie Hollon with Elkins Insurance came to give the court an update on quotes. Mrs. Hollon made the court

Journalistic malpractice committed in Kentucky Republican governor's race

Even before I left the journalism profession, I'd become critical of the way the news is covered. From the stories that are chosen vs. those that are ignored, to the way certain stories are presented, I saw journalism, especially the kind practiced by daily newspapers, swirling around the drain a long time ago.

But now that I'm on the other side of things, and have had the misfortune to be misquoted or have a quote taken out of context as a source for a news story (thankfully, very rarely,) I see it even more clearly.

As someone who remains a staunch defender of the First Amendment and appreciates the role the press is supposed to play, this pains me. But day after day, I see journalistic malpractice being committed to the extent that it's becoming obvious that most of the traditional mainstream media's wounds are self-inflicted.

Nowhere was this more evident than in the just-concluded Kentucky Republican gubernatorial primary. It's hard to picture a bigger failure of journalists to do their jobs than in the way the governor's race was covered.

A key factor in this year's four-way primary, won by Louisville resident Matt Bevin by a razor-thin margin, was the role that blogger Michael Adams played in the race. Adams, you'll aware that we had pricing from one company and were still waiting to hear back from two more.

She also discussed some of the issues that could lead to increases, as well as things we may be able to look at in the future to try and avoid increases or at least minimize these increases.

We hope to have these other quotes back in next week or so, and at that time we will be able to select the company, as well as make any necessary adjustments to the budget if needed.

Moving onto the new business portion of the meeting, I had a couple of updates to give to the court. The first was making them aware of another grant we were fortunate enough to receive. We were able to obtain another grant through the Division of Solid Waste for just under $86,000 to further expand our recycling program. I told the court that Kenny Case and Bezel Hall should both be thanked for the efforts and energy they expended to help secure these funds.

This grant, as well as the ones we've received over the last several years, has allowed our transfer station to become more self-sufficient as well as better able to provide a worthy service to our citizens. This is a department that has the possibility within the next couple of years to be able to function at no cost to our tax payers if we are able to continue down the path their on.

The second of these two updates was to make the court and public aware that we had received our first reading of the 2015-2016 budget back from the Department of Local Government. This means that they have reviewed our budget and are comfortable with it.

The next step will be to schedule the second reading and when the second reading has been approved we will have completed the process. As this has to happen prior to July 1st, we will have to have a special meeting sometime this month.

Coming next on the agenda was Tim Snowden with the Soil Conservation Office. Mr. Snowden came before the court to make us aware of some of the things they had going on and of their meeting dates which he encouraged anyone interested to attend. He said they were making a concentrated effort to build this office back up and to bring more programs and opportunities to Powell County.

Following Mr. Snowden was the approving of an inter-local agreement through the Bluegrass Area Development District. This agreement is between the seventeen governments that is represented by the ADD and was in relation to the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act.

This agreement helps lay out how the body administering funds coming from this act will be organized. This new agreement is another step in correcting some of the deficiencies identified in audits of the ADD that occurred under some of its previous administrations.

The new leadership of the ADD has shown a tremendous effort in correcting any deficiencies that had previously existed and have the qualities needed to move the district in the right direction in the future.

Opening the request for proposals for an architect for the new senior citizens building was the next item addressed. We only had one architect submit a proposal, which was MSE. The court voted to accept MSE as the architect if they met all the criteria spelled out by the administrator of the grant. I am very excited to see this project get underway as this is a facility that is long overdue for our senior's. We were very fortunate to receive a Community Development Block Grant for $500,000 that will make this building a reality.

Following this, Mr. Chris Chaney came before the court to give and update on a grant he was able to secure in conjunction with the Powell County Health Department for development of a bicycle and pedestrian plan.

Mr. Chaney presented the court with a copy of the plan as well as a resolution adopting this plan. Having such a plan in place should be very beneficial in helping us obtain additional grants and funding in the future to start trying to implement some of these routes. The court voted in support of the resolution and thanked Mr. Chaney for all in efforts on behalf of Powell County.

Next, the court voted to allow some name changes on bank accounts. We had one employee who is no longer employed by the county whose name needed to be removed from accounts.

During the month of June we review the Policy Procedure Manual. I made the court aware of this fact as several may not have been aware of this, as they are new to the court. I asked each of them to review the document and make notes on anything they felt needed changed, added or deleted.

We will try to make all the necessary changes at the special meeting at the end of the month.

We had four other items that needed to be addressed that came in late and fell in under other business. The first was making the court aware that we had received the Sheriff's audit and had copies available for their review.

Also, Powell's Valley Water district had notified me of the need to reappoint one of their board members. I accepted their request to reappoint Mr. Babe Howard. The court voted to accept this appointment.

The next to last item was to have an employee who was previously full time at the transfer station come back and work some part time hours. We had budgeted to try and use a part time position instead of a full-time slot in an effort to save additional funds. The court voted to allow this individual to work up to 20 hours a week at the discretion of the supervisor.

The last item the court addressed was a personnel matter. Because of the nature of this business the court voted to go into closed session as spelled out in KRS 61.810 (f). After a rather lengthy discussion the voted to come back out of closed session with no action being taken in the closed session. At this point the court voted to dismiss an employee upon the recommendation and information provided by supervisors of that department.

As always, I'd like to thank you for the time and interest you show in keeping up with your local government. I just want to remind you I work for you, so feel free to share your likes or dislikes with how things are going.

recall, is the person who began making allegations that Jamie Comer assaulted a college girlfriend. His charges circulated around the Internet for months, but finally floated to the surface when the Lexington Herald-Leader reported that Adams had contacted the campaigns of two of Comer's Republican rivals, Hal Heiner and Will T. Scott, to peddle his allegations. (Some nontraditional media outlets reported that Adams also made contact with the campaign of Attorney General Jack Conway, who was the presumptive Democratic gubernatorial nominee).

When Adams' assertions hit the mainstream, the race blew wide open. Adams had been trying to convince Comer's ex-girlfriend to give him information, but she refused. When the Herald-Leader story hit print, she felt compelled to contact The Courier-Journal to confirm the allegations. The rest is well-known. Comer blamed Heiner for spreading the story, accused his ex-girlfriend of making the story up for money, and the fallout is widely believed to have damaged both of them and allowed Bevin to emerge victorious by a scant 83 votes.

The big player in the race was clearly Adams, but why didn't the media investigate him? Why did they never dig into his motivation for opposing Comer so ardently? How could they allow him to affect the race the way he did without questioning why? The closest anyone came was a story by CNHI's political reporter Ronnie Ellis, but his story consisted mainly of Auditor Adam Edelen complaining about Adams' prior involvement in a legislative race in Clark County. Giving Edelen, a Democrat, space to go on a partisan rant against how Adams was involved in opposition research against another Democrat a few years ago is hardly the same as shining some light on his motivation for getting involved in the governor's race this year.

By not investigating Adams' reasons for attacking Comer so viciously, but letting Adams' revelations dominate the news as the campaign entered its final stretch, the media failed. And the press failed again by latching on to Adams' more salacious allegations, yet not exploring his more substantive charges.

Comer ran primarily on his record the past four years as commissioner of agriculture. Adams made several claims that Comer has mismanaged the state's pilot industrial hemp project, yet no one ever looked into those charges. One would think that from a policy standpoint, that would be more important than a "he said, she said" matter from two decades ago. But I can't recall having seen any media outlet doing a story about the hemp issue.

There were other media mistakes made as well. One of Comer's top assistants in the Department of Agriculture left her official job and went to work for his campaign, then abruptly quit. Several prominent Comer supporters and donors, including family members of this former staffer, switched their support from Comer to Heiner. Some perfunctory reporting was done on their change of favored candidate, but no one looked into the bigger picture, including why a trusted aide left Comer's side. Speculation ran rampant in cyberspace, but nothing was ever put on the record.

The domestic abuse allegations were low-hanging fruit. I'd been aware of them for months, long before they hit the mainstream, but didn't consider them credible until the ex-girlfriend confirmed them. It would have taken a little more investigating to check out the charges of mismanagement of the hemp program, but that wasn't as eye-catching or glamorous as allegations of physical abuse. And it would have required even more digging to get the scoop on the source of the charges himself.

We may never know what prompted Adams to turn into an anti-Comer zealot. Had the press done its job, we would have found out. What if Adams decides to get involved in another race this fall? Will the press then try to learn what makes him tick, but only after he had an unscrutinized impact on the GOP gubernatorial primary?

When The C-J published the story in which Comer's college girlfriend confirmed the abuse allegations, Comer's attorney threatened a lawsuit. To date, none has been filed. A better case could be made against the entire Kentucky journalistic community for malpractice during the GOP primary. It's too bad such an action isn't possible.

Heat Related Illnesses

With the start of summer this week, temperatures are already soaring to the low to mid 90's. With temperatures this high and the sun beaming down harmful ultra violet rays it is important to take special precautions during the summer months Whether you are working or playing outside there are three main types of heat illnesses that you need to be aware of: heat exhaustion, heat cramps, and heatstroke. Heat exhaustion and heat cramps are common illnesses that people experience from being out in the heat too long. Heat stroke is more serious as it can result in death if the correct precautions are not taken.

Symptoms of heat cramps include sweating and painful muscle spasms. To treat heat cramps drink plenty of fluids, adequate electrolyte intake (Gatorade or Powerade), and rest frequently in a shaded and cool area.

Symptoms of heat exhaustion include: nausea, headache, weakness, confusion, elevated temperature, accelerated pulse, and passing out. To treat heat exhaustion lay the victim in a cool, shaded area, remove personal protective equipment, drink water or fluids with electrolytes (if conscious), and seek prompt medical attention.

Symptoms of heat stroke include: headache, slurred speech, dizziness, faintness, hallucinations, seizures, loss of consciousness and victim's skin is hot and dry to the touch. To treat heat strokes seek immediate medical attention. While waiting for medical personnel lay the victim in a cool, shaded area, remove their personal protective equipment and if they are conscious drink water or fluids that contain electrolytes. Our ability to deal with the heat varies with our age and our physical condition. The young and elderly are at a higher risk for heat related illnesses. However, we can all protect ourselves by following a few, simple guidelines:

- Slow down, if strenuous activity is necessary do it during the coolest part of the day, between 4AM – 8AM.

- Stay inside as much as possible. If you do not have air conditioning you can circulate the air with fans. They do not cool the air, but they will evaporate sweat.

- Wear lightweight and light-colored clothing. This will reflect away from the sun and provide more air.

- Drink plenty of water, even if you do not feel thirsty! Avoid drinks with caffeine. They can make you feel good, but they magnify the heat's effects on your body.

- Eat small meals more often than three larger meals. You do not want to get too full too fast.

Skin Cancer

For farmers and others that have to be in the sun constantly they have an added hazard that they must worry about: skin cancer. Skin cancer is caused by the total amount of sun that we receive and the overexposure that leads to sunburn. Other factors that can lead to skin cancer are heredity and our environment.

If there is a history of skin cancer in your family, then you are at a higher risk than most. If you have fair skin then you are susceptible to skin cancer as well. As for the environment aspect the factors that can increase your chances are higher elevation, being close to the equator, and cloud cover. Cloud cover will reduce the harmful UV rays produced by the sun.

There are things that can be done to reduce your chances of skin cancer. Follow these six precautions to reduce your risk:

1. Try to stay indoors during the hours that the sun is the most harmful (between the hours of 10AM – 3PM).

2. Apply sunscreen that is at least a SPF-15 or higher to all areas of the body that may be exposed to the sun.

3. Reapply the sunscreen every 2 hours, even on cloudy days.

4. Wear clothing that covers your body and shades your face (a hat is highly recommended).

5. Avoid unnecessary UV radiation from tanning beds and sun lamps.

6. Protect your children. Sunscreen should not be used on children under 6 months old. Parents should limit their children's sun exposure.

Stay safe this month by avoiding too much of a good thing. The sun is nice this time of year, but small amounts in moderation is better for everyone.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Former teacher wants to give recognition where it is truly due

In my opinion, some of the most important people in the county have never received any recognition. Congratulations to the Powell County School Bus Drivers and to the Bus Garage Mechanics who keep our buses on the road.

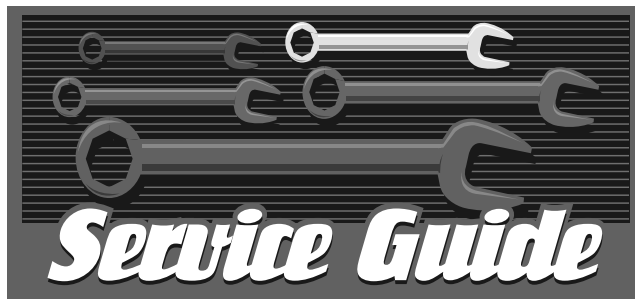

These drivers carry hundreds of children to and from school. I have talked with several drivers and their concern is the safety of the children, whether riding or getting off and on the bus. There have been so many accidents throughout the state this year, but not in Powell County.

I am so proud of our drivers for student problems and narrow country roads they have to contend with. Keep up the good work and we need to keep them in our prayers.

Killing near Powell Line

Late Friday Will Goff was slain at his place of business on the Appalachian Way in Clark county, not far from the Powell county line by Brooks Puckett. Officers put Puckett under arrest Friday night. He was released next day under special guard and bond. Examining trail set for yesterday, the results of which we have not learned. Goff was killed by three shot-gun wounds, dying instantly. Goff is from one of the leading families of Clark county; was a son of Cas P. Goff, large land owner, farmer and stock man and lived just across the road from his father. He was 28 years old and is survived by his widow; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Caswell Goff; three brothers, Levi, John and Thomas Goff, and a sister, Mrs. Eliza Pence, of Virginia. He was a widely known young man.

Puckett lives near the Goff place, and is well known. He was in attendance of the ball game here Sunday, we learned.

What lead up to the killing has not been given out by either side.

Puckett was arrested at his home Tuesday morning on a charge of shooting and wounding Gay Gatewood, negro, and arraigned before Judge Lee Evans in county court, and his bond was fixed at $1,000, which he had not executed early Tuesday afternoon. Puckett shot Gatewood at the same time he shot Goff, but his wound being in his arm was not serious.

Unusual Accident

Mr. J. F. Smith was in the room where his light plant is located at his store yesterday afternoon when the storms came up. The door to the outside was open, Mr. Smith hearing the roar of the wind blended the hum of the machinery caused him to look out and placed his hand against where the door closes with his thumb in direct contact. The wind unexpectedly blew the door shut and cut off about one-half of the exposed thumb, leaving but a little of the skin.

Dr. Stewart was called immediately. He stuck the thumb back, hoping to save it.

Three Mt. Sterling Merchants Swindled

A woman and little girl driving a car blew into Mt. Sterling last Wednesday. First deposited $20 in a bank and proceeded to shop after the bank was closed. She made small purchases at three stores, paid for them by check which always called for cash. She cashed in a total of $105 and left town with her goods and cash, leaving her bank account of $20 for the merchants she swindled to wrestle over.

Circuit Court

Circuit Court convened at Stanton Monday with Judge Shackelford on the bench and Commonwealth's Attorney Baxter, and County Attorney John D. Atkinson prosecuting.

The crowd at Circuit Court was not so large as usual, owing to the fine working day and farmers needed so badly in their crops. Court caught up with its work Monday morning and adjourned until Wednesday.

Has fortune told and taken

According to the Winchester Democrat, Joseph

Prow, a decorator employed in that city, went to some Gypsies to have his fortune told. Prow carried his life time savings - ten $100 bills - with him in a pocket book. It was on Thursday Prow had his fortune told. He was directed to not open his purse until Friday afternoon. This he did. But to his amazement he found his life fortune of $1,000 taken as well told by the Gypsies who by this time were traveling far onward.

And he Landed in the Ditch

Monday while on a good road in a Bluegrass county, an Ohio licensed car passed us making about double the speed we were. We plodded on and soon came up with the car that had passed us. It was over in a ditch against a telephone pole and one door torn off and fenders bent. We helped him out, gave him a string to tie together his loose parts. He then let us take the lead, and did not attempt to pass us again. Our minds drifted back on this occasion to the lesson of the hare and the tortoise in one of our readers at school.

Words of Wisdom: Famous quotes from the Rev. Billy Graham

“Forgiveness does not come easily to us, especially when someone we have trusted betrays our trust. And yet if we do not learn to forgive, we will discover that we can never really rebuild trust.”

“We cannot ask forgiveness over and over again for our sins, and then return to our sins, expecting God to forgive us. We must turn from our practice of sin as best we know how, and turn to Christ by faith as our Lord and Savior.”

“When God forgives us and purifies us of our sin, He also for-gets it. Forgiveness results in God dropping the charges against us.”

“Don’t ever hesitate to take to [God] whatever is on your heart. He already knows it anyway, but He doesn’t want you to bear its pain or celebrate its joy alone.”

“I am convinced that when a man sincerely searches for God with all his heart, God will reveal Himself in some way.”

“God can use the fear that grips the hearts of men today to point them to eternal truths—the truth of God’s eternal judgment, and the truth of His eternal love.”

“Life is just a schoolroom with a glorious opportunity to prepare us for eternity.”

“I trust Jesus with all my tomor-rows, knowing that He will solve the mystery of life beyond the grave.”

This is a rare opportunity to buy a one of a kind boundary of land. It's been quite some time since a property of this nature has come available with this location. The property has a great location at Bethesda Mission Rd at the community of Vortex, KY. off Hwy # 15 East of Campton about two and a half miles. The property has a County Road through part of it and other roads and/or foot trails which have been opened for viewing. The property has a pond. There are branches on the property with upper Devils Creek flowing through part of the property. The property also has 2 water falls one of which is about 15 feet the other is about 4 feet along with stair drop falls down Devils Creek. The property has some of the most amazing and wonderful views and scenery. There is lots of wildlife on the property. The property has a large assortment of vegetation and trees from ferns. The property has a few rock shelters and down Devils Creek there are solid rock bottoms and rock out cropping along the banks. Devils Creek eventually flows into the KY River. This property is about 20 minutes from the Red River Gorge and 35 minutes from Natural Bridge State Park. This is also possible recreation development.

OPEN HOUSE JUNE 13th, 2015 FROM 1-5 PM.

The property has about 50 to 60 acres in what could be reclaimed as pasture with possibly an additional 20 to 30 acres. This property could be used as a weekend retreat for camping, hunting, horse back riding, ATV riding, or other activities. The property could be subdivide and sold for smaller parcels, kept for a investment, or used for a business. There are numerous home, cabin, or camping sites on the property. The only improvements on the property are a old log house and a barn. The property has been surveyed. Any and all mineral rights are in tact. We will be selling the property as a whole by the surveyed Deed. The property and the improvements are and will be sold "As Is."

(D) Purchasers shall not be entitled to the possession of the real estate until the Court's confirmation of the sale and the payment in full of the purchaser price and delivery of the deed unless the Plaintiff's are the purchasers.

(E) Risk of loss of the improvements of the real property shall pass to the purchaser or purchasers at the time of sale. The successful bidders may, (unless otherwise stated at the end of a sale) from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on the improvements on such property to the extent of the court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner of the Powell Circuit Court.

(F) Upon default of the payment of the deposit or posting of bond by the purchaser, the Master Commissioner shall immediately re-sell the property upon the same terms and conditions set out herein.

Former Powell resident, Alyssum Pohl, to kayak the entire Mississippi River

From source to sea, Alyssum Pohl will be paddling the Mississippi River while documenting water quality and plastic waste. Pohl lived in Powell County when she was younger and is now doing her best to make the world a better place.

Pohl, has a Bachelor of Science in Biology and a Master of Arts in International Environmental Policy. She will be the youngest female to solo kayak the entire Mississippi River.

Paddling the fourth longest river in the world, while documenting plastic waste and water quality will be quite a feat. "In addition to recording qualitative and quantitative measures, I'll be sharing my process and results via a blog along the way," Pohl said. "The material therein will be collated for educational purposes into a complete compendium that includes story, data, and video."

Pohl will be trying to accomplish her goal during three months this summer. She plans to begin June 20 and run through September 20.

Pohl will begin her journey along the mighty Mississippi River starting in Lake Itasca, Minnesota. She will then be paddling all the way to the Gulf of Mexico, for a total of 2,552 miles.

"I am currently looking for a full-time ocean/coastal conservation job, but I decided that I could continue working on my career despite not being employed," she added. "Why let a thing like that stop you from accomplishing your dreams of making a difference?"

Pohl will be using a touring sea kayak as her vessel. She will be needing some financial help to make it actually happen.

"My goal is to complete this project as quickly and safely as possible. Weather and large ships/barges are my two most likely adversaries. Though I will be floating with the current, I will be paddling against the wind," Pohl said. "On days when the wind is too strong, I may have to stay on land, maybe do my laundry or write some blog posts instead of paddling. In order to stay safe from large ships, I will be traveling close to the shore, and out of the shipping lane as much as possible."

You can find out more about the trip, follow her blog and how to help on kickstarter.com.

integrate them into a work situation."

That process includes such things as how to dress for an interview, how to apply for a job and how to act on a job site. It also helps with teaching people what they need to know to do a particular job and how to stay safe.

"We had employers and community leaders come in, do a presentation about their companies or employment opportunities and they even conducted mock interviews," Barnett said. "It seemed to work great and we saw a lot of promise and improvement. The local chamber of commerce presented certificates to those who completed the program. We had students from here so now we want to bring it to Powell County as well."

Barnett, who lives in Powell County, has been very active in groups that help autistic children, her son is autistic. But she says this program is available for more than just special needs students and families.

"Vocational rehab is not about disabilities," she added. "It is a way to break down barricades to employment for students, young people and adults."

Barnett said that veterans with traumatic injuries, a breast cancer survivor, people with developmental delays or intellectual disabilities, people with OCD or those in danger of losing their jobs due to downsizing or other issues, are just a few of the others who could be eligible.

"I want to get everyone who is eligible a chance to go through the program and make a difference in their lives," Barnett said. "We want community leaders, employers and those seeking help to realize they have a socially valued role and we want to remove barriers to help people become employed. That includes overcoming the myths of who can be employed."

The program known as "OPT-IN" was established under a one year federal grant, but Barnett said it looks 95 percent sure that a second year grant is coming due to its success. The course is an eight week program taught at MCTC in Mount Sterling and the Key Assets office.

"We do have individual classes for those who need it," Barnett said. "There are two levels, one is for those who may need a little more assistance. That can be determined by a pre-assessment. We have an instructor and a vocational rehab assistant in the classes now."

They opened the program to the high school students as well. A three week condensed program was taught at the high school for the students who need the assistance. Due to transportation issues for families, it was taught after school.

"The program is successful and it can help so many," Barnett said. "Just a few years ago, 20 or so, 1 in 5,000 was born with autism, now it's 1 in 58. The trend is that the employers will need to become more engaged with the situation as many in the workforce may have a special need of some kind, even if it's a disability of a different type."

This program is a move in the right direction for all who need to overcome a barrier to be career ready. The class is free for those who are eligible and fill out the application. The fee is $20 if you are not eligible, but Barnett says that participants can be scholarshiped in. "We waive that fee and we've not charged anyone as of this date," she added.

Barnett plans to hold a meeting at the Powell County Public Library to discuss the program and how it can help people in the county. That meeting will be held on June 26. If you want more information, but cannot make the meeting, call Barnett at 859-585-9491 or email her at marilyn.barnett@keyass-kentucky.com.

Bridging the gap from hospital to home!

"I don't believe I would have been able to return home, and be as independent as I am without Stanton Nursing and Rehab Center."

Let us help you take the next step...

Barbara Conley is Stanton Nursing and Rehabilitation's most recent success! Ms. Conley was admitted for rehab services in April 2015, after having elective hip replacement, and an acute care stay in the hospital for three days. When Barbara arrived, she required minimal assistance with self care, and short ambulation. With lots of support from her church friends, family, and the Nursing and Rehabilitation department, she was able to regain her independence. Ms. Conley was able to return home and complete all of her self care tasks with the use of adaptive equipment, and walking unlimited distances with a rollator walker.

Congratulations Barbara on your accomplishment, and thank you for allowing us to help bridge your health care needs from hospital to home.
